

VET

Established in 1986, VET are now based in Hoxton Square, Shoreditch, the heart of London's multimedia industry. Their mission is to provide a truly excellent service to a broad range of television and other media professionals.

Why Green Mark?

VET want to do what is right environmentally and welcomed the opportunity to take advice and to review working practice. Being a technical company they need to make every effort to minimise waste and energy consumption in an industry that thrives on new products and faster computer systems. In addition, the company accesses public funding and has become increasingly aware of the drive for sustainability when applying for this.

An environmental audit suggested that they were already doing much of what was needed to achieve Green Mark Level One. The award is seen as a very positive signal and an affirmation of the steps the company has already been taking.
